Subject: FW: Draft Contract

Hi Folks

I have sent the pension part of the query below to DPER, but I just wanted to run this by you, from a payroll point of view is something like this feasible do you think?

My suggestion was that he should be set up as an external claimant and be paid as and when he submits his hours/days, but apparently they don't want that, they want him paid through the payroll.

Regards

David

Subject: Draft Contract

Hi Dave,

Attached is a draft contract for a special envoy role John Conlan asked me to pull together. The person we have in mind for the role is an ex-minister and we will be offering them a 2 year contract which will entail circa 50 days work over the 2 year period. John wants the individual paid via the payroll in arrears and this will probably involve us instructing Payroll every quarter on the number of days worked. My question is, should such a role attract a pension in the absence of regular biweekly contributions? If contributions are paid based on the number of days worked, is this workable or do we just remove reference to the pension altogether?

Regards,
Ken
